

TRANSFERRING COMMODITIES

BENEFITS OF GIVING COMMODITIES

Giving commodities, such as grain or livestock, allows producers to make a charitable contribution before the products have been realized as taxable income. These commodities are readily marketable by Cru. Giving in this way can provide federal and state income tax savings and self-employment tax savings to the producer because Cru is registered as a charitable organization under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Producers should consult their tax advisors to determine if contributing commodities is appropriate for their individual situations.

HOW TO BEGIN

1. Deliver the grain to the local elevator and transfer the legal ownership of the commodity to Cru.
2. Contact Cru with the details of your gift. Please see a sample of the required information below.
3. If needed, a Cru representative will contact the elevator to initiate the sale of grain. The elevator will then issue a check for the sale of the commodity to Cru.

GIFT DETAILS

I, _____, hereby gift _____ (# of bushels) of _____ (type of grain) to Cru. I understand that I will transport the gifted grain to market on behalf of Cru.

The gifted bushels are/will be held at _____ (grain elevator). In order for Cru to authorize the sale of the gifted bushels, the elevator can be contacted at (_____) _____ - _____.

Signature _____ Date _____

Print Full Name _____ Email _____

Address _____ City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Home Phone _____ Work Phone _____

Purpose of this Gift _____

Send completed form to:
stock@cru.org | Fax: 1-407-826-2427
100 Lake Hart Dr., 2400, Orlando, FL 32832

For further assistance:
1-888-278-7233 x2406
give.cru.org